U.S. COURT GETS BATTLE WAGED FOR RADICALS

Application for Writ of Certiorari Filed in Washington Today

ANOTHER RESPITE ASKED

Vanzetti Cries of "Persecution" in His Cell in State Prison

Washington, Aug. 20—The dramatic fight being waged to save Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti from the electric chair reached the United States Supreme Court today.

As a sort of forlorn gesture, Michael A. Musmanno of counsel for the condemned men, walked into the empty chambers of the supreme court this morning and filed an application for a writ of certiorari. The court is not in session and there is no member of the bench in the capital.

There was a hitch in the filing, however, owing to the fact that Musmanno did not have with him the record of the state supreme court to attach to his application, as required by the U. S. Supreme Court rules.

Sends for Papers

Harold Willy, assistant clerk of the court, ruled that these papers would have to accompany the application, and Musmanno telephoned to Arthur Hill in Boston to rush them post haste.

Willy accepted the application and the filing fee of $20, however, but said he could not docket the case until the papers reach here probably on Monday.

In a strictly technical sense, the application was not "on file," court at-

VANZETTI'S SISTER CONSOLES HIM

State's Prison, Boston, Aug. 20—"Bartolomeo"

The shaking voice of a heart-broken sister echoed through the death house in this prison today. "Luigia."

One of the most widely-known prisoners in the world threw himself into the arms of the woman who had traveled across the Atlantic to give him a sister's consolation before he went to eternity in the electric chair.

The words, "Bartolomeo" and "Luigia," were the only words spoken for several minutes as Vanzetti and his sister clung to each other's bodies and cried.

The grim old walls of Charlestown had never witnessed a sight of such pathos.

Taking a dress from a downtown department store when she was sure the store detective was looking, Miss Von Fleet was arrested and brought before municipal Judge Bell, where she hoped to receive a jail sentence.

Bell heard her admission of the theft, and the reason, but declared petit larceny was petit larceny, and fined her $25 and costs, suspending the much desired jail sentence.

FARMERS WILL GET $50,000 FOR CLEANUP

Estimate on Compensation for Work Here Made by Man in Charge

RESULTS SATISFACTORY

G. Perle Johnston Highly Pleased with Campaign in This County

Compensation paid Marion County farmers for voluntary cleanup work in connection with the corn borer eradication campaign during the spring and early summer will total approximately $50,000.

This estimate was obtained today from G. Perle Johnston, Kenton, who had charge of the borer campaign in Marion and Morrow counties. Mr. Johnston said that his visit here today marks the wind-up of his work, which started several months ago. He came here for a final conference with inspectors who assisted him in this county and to pass upon a number of belated compensation claims.

Payment Rates

Payments are made by the government to all farmers who voluntarily assisted in the corn borer war by clearing their premises of all remnants of last year's corn crop. They were paid $2 an acre for 100 per cent clean-ups and proportionate compensation for partial compliance with government regulations.

Johnston states that results achieved in Marion County were generally satisfactory and that with few exceptions farmers co-operated willingly with government and state authorities.

Checks for clean-up work have been received from the government by many of the farmers and all other payments will be made soon, Johnston says.

He stated that approximately 50,000 farmers in the corn borer area shared in compensation for assisting in the clean-up work.

Farmers who refused to co-operate and whose land was cleaned up by government and state crews, will be required to pay the cost of this work, according to plans outlined by authorities.

Portrait of Arthur Norris, Jr., 16-Months-Old Son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B Morris, Silver-st, Takes Award

Portrait by Master Studio

Master Arthur Norris

THE portrait of Master Arthur Norris Jr., 16-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Norris, Silver-st, was one of 15 to receive a certificate of merit at the annual convention of Ohio, Michigan and Illinois Photographers Association at Cedar Point, recently.

The above photo of the baby was taken at the Master Studio, S. Main-st, during April when the child had completed the first year of his life. The picture was submitted in the contest by Walter W. Weber, owner of Master Studio. The certificates granted for the 15 photographs were taken from a field of 500 entries.

The above pose is a natural one of young Arthur. He is the grandson of Richard Norris, production engineer of the Huber Manufacturing Co.

A portrait of Miss Mary Alice McAllister, formerly of this city, won a similar recognition for Weber at Pittsburgh Salon, an amateur meeting of photographers, three years ago.

Coolidge Refuses To Take Action On Appeal For Stay In Sacco-Vanzetti Case

Plea of Citizens' Committee Forwarded to Summer White House Promptly Returned to Washington "for Reference"

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 20—President Coolidge can not and will have nothing to do with the Sacco-Vanzetti case, it was stated here today with finality. The appeal of the citizens' committee for a stay of execution which was forwarded to the summer White House by the state department was promptly sent back to Washington to the Department of Justice, "for reference."

On several occasions Mr. Coolidge personally has made it clear that he is powerless to act, that the matter is one solely for the governor and courts of Massachusetts and he has indicated that he does not care to follow in the steps of President Wilson and attempt to influence a state official.

Meanwhile, as the date of execution of the payroll murderers neared, the greatest precautions are being taken by the double guard around the president. The secret service staff has been increased by two men who spend their entire time at the high school here which serves as a temporary executive office. Additional soldiers have been sent from Meade to reinforce the army detail at the state game lodge and orders have been issued to the sentries to shoot upon any failure to obey orders.

BLAZE SWEEPS POMEROY WITH HEAVY DAMAGE

Loss of $300,000 Sustained in Ohio City from Devastating Fire

15 STORES DESTROYED

Many Homes Lost, While Telephone Communication Is Crippled

Pomeroy, Aug. 20—Fire which swept the business district of this town early today, destroying 15 business houses and residences for a loss of $300,000 was brought under control after a four hour fight, though it continued to burn throughout the morning.

Lack of water hindered the firemen of Pomeroy, Gallipolis and Middleport from making early headway against the flames, although the town is situated on the Bluffs above the Ohio River.

The fire is believed to have started in a combination livery stable and garage.

Water System Crippled

Landslides about the town crippled the water system some time ago and has not yet been repaired.

Among the business and buildings destroyed are:

Pomeroy Democrat, Ewing's Undertaking Parlor, Somers Shoe Store, Pomeroy Bottling Works, Benoch's Hardware Store, Myers Feed Store and residence, Sargent's Restaurant, Hoover's Soft Drink Parlor, Starkle's Tailor Shop, Ready's Livery Stable and Garage, Myers Shoe Store, and Wetzel's Hardware Store.

Communication Down

Telephone communication in the town is crippled. The fire continued to burn at a late hour but was reported under control soon after 5 a. m.

The fire departments of Gallipolis and Middleport assisted the Pomeroy firemen.

All water in residences and stores was shut off until the fire was under control. Since that hour residents have been obtaining water.

COMPROMISE RESULT IN BODY CONTENTION

Third Party Called in To Conduct Dayton Man's Funeral

Dayton, Aug. 20—Funeral services for O. H. Webb, 75, were being held today under court order, after the body had been returned from Bellbrook, where it had been spirited away by an undertaker.

Webb died at the Miami Valley Hospital Sunday, and his body given in charge of an undertaker. When Webb's daughter, Mrs. Anna Marsh, West Palm Beach, Fla., was notified of her father's death, she ordered a different undertaker to conduct the burial.

The first undertaker refused to surrender the body and disappeared when a court injunction was issued against him. When the second undertaker sought the body it could not be found.

The first funeral director returned with the body last night and gave the body to a third director, who conducted the funeral today.

MEN ARE BURNED IN FIENDISH MURDER

One Is Dead, Other Dying; Beaten and Gasoline Poured on Them

Baltimore, Aug. 20—A fiendish murder in which one man was burned to death and another so badly burned that he probably will die was perpetrated early today in the Middle River resort district.

John C. Hazaney, 25, is dead, and his companion, Chester Pugh, 25, is dying in Baltimore City Hospital. They were beaten up, gasoline poured over them and a match applied to their clothing.

Hazaney died on the operating table in great agony, screaming [illegible] got me, the kid got me!"

A short time later, police arrested a local [illegible] and Edward Goff, [illegible]

Search for Seven Missing Aviators Stretches Across Entire 2400-Mile Honolulu-San Francisco Airway and Centers at Points Where Flares Seen

ERWIN AND EICHWALDT IN TAIL SPIN

Radio from "Dallas Spirit" They Were Frightened as Craft Dropped; Recover Balance Only To Go Down Second Time; Then Silence

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20—A hope which burned brightly for a few hours today that trace of the missing Dole flight planes had been discovered miles off the Pacific coast flickered out today when the freighter West Sequana reported by wireless through the Federal Telegraph Co. that its search for the source of flares it believed it had sighted had been in vain.

"We are proceeding on our course to Shanghia," the freighter reported in a message which had been filed at 8:39 a. m. The vessel had circled for four hours about the spot in the ocean from which the flares had come.

By International News Service

Six Dole fliers and a daring girl passenger were feared to be in peril of their lives today, somewhere on the broad Pacific between the mainland and Hawaii.

Capt. Bill Erwin and Alvin Eichwaldt of the "Dallas Spirit" are believed to have crashed into the sea late last night, while flying a zig-zag trail over the great circle course. Erwin and Eichwaldt had taken off from the Oakland airport yesterday afternoon to fly to Honolulu in search of the "Miss Doran" and the "Golden Eagle," which were lost while racing in the Dole $35,000 derby last Tuesday.

Pilot J. Auggy Pedlar, Navigator Vilas Knope and Mildred Doran, the "flying schoolma'am," form the crew of the Dole biplane. Jack Frost, pilot, and Gordon Scott, navigator, are in the cockpit of the "Golden Eagle."

Search Centered

The search today for the missing fliers, although stretching across the entire 2,400-mile Honolulu-San Francisco airway, centered at two points, approximately 400 miles and 300 miles off the California coast.

The West Sequana, thought to be between 250 and 300 miles off the Golden Gate, electrified the search on both sides of the Pacific early today by reporting the sighting of four distinct reddish flares.

The freighter is about 320 miles away from the last position of the "Dallas Spirit," prompting the hope that the signals may have been shot up from the "Miss Doran" or the "Golden Eagle."

Destroyers Converge

Three destroyers, the Lavallette, the Sumner and the Hazelwood, were converging on a point about 600 miles off the coast where Bill Erwin's "Dallas Spirit" sent out its last radio call. The airplane carrier, Langley, which had been following the great circle course in search of the "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran," also rushed to the supposed position of the "Dallas Spirit." Observation planes will shoot from the Langley's decks to take up the search for Erwin and Eichwaldt who are believed to have gone down on their flight of mercy.

The West Sequana was awaiting daylight today to search for the source of the flares and the coming of dawn was expected to give impetus to the search for Captain Erwin and his navigator, Alvin H. Eichwaldt.

Tail Spin

The last word from the "Dallas Spirit" was picked up here at 9:02 p. m. (Pacific time), saying the ship was in a tail spin.

Through early hours of the night the plane that carried Erwin and Eichwaldt was in constant radio communication with the receiving station in Oakland.

At 8:50 o'clock this message came from the "Dallas Spirit:"

"We are in tail spin.

"Relay that we came out of it O.K., but were sure scared. It sure was a close call. We thought it was all over but we came out of it. The lights on the [illegible] board went out and it was [illegible]"

Then—

"9:02 p. m.—We are in another."

Since then no word has been received from the "Dallas Spirit."

The commander of the twelfth naval district of San Francisco figures the position of the plane at approximately 702 nautical miles from San Francisco.

Raises Total to Seven

The loss of Captain Erwin and his navigator would bring the total missing in the Dole flight to seven, with three killed and three planes lost and three wrecked, with two other planes partially wrecked.

Captain Erwin volunteered to hunt for the Hearst plane, "Golden Eagle" and the "Miss Doran" which have not been heard from since they left San Francisco last Tuesday.

The "Dallas Spirit," in which Erwin and his companion were flying, was thought to be about 700 miles out from San Francisco when the S. O. S. reported the plane in a tail spin.

WILL STOP CHILDREN FROM CROSSING OHIO

Move Planned as Precaution Against Infantile Paralysis Spread

Columbus, Aug. 20—While West Virginia authorities prepared today to prevent Ohio and West Virginia children under 15 years of age from crossing the Ohio River to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis, Dr. C. P. Robbins, chief of the state bureau of communicable disease, was at Uhrichsville conferring with Tuscarawas County authorities.

West Virginia state police will co-operate with health authorities of the two states and will guard the inter-state bridges across the Ohio River.

Twelve cases have been reported in the Wheeling district, Dr. Robbins reported, after his return late Friday from a conference with West Virginia health officials.

Draftsman Confesses He Stole Blueprints for U. S. Battle Cruiser

Philadelphia, Aug. 20—Sven Dan Berg, 24-year-old Danish draftsman, is being held under $50,000 bail today following a hearing before a U. S. commissioner after his alleged confession of theft of secret plans for a United States battle cruiser. The blueprints were found beneath a stone near the new art museum here on Parkway blvd.

Berg's confession came after a severe grilling by department of justice agents. He formerly worked in the naval construction department at Newport News and it was there that he obtained the plans, agents said.

A mysterious letter to the chief of the naval construction department asking a reward for return of the plans and threatening to sell them to a foreign power if no reward was forthcoming led to the apprehension of Berg.

PORTER CONFESSES MURDER OF WOMAN

Mystery Slaying in Gallipolis Hotel Believed Cleared by Police

Gallipolis, Aug. 20 — Eddy Peppers, 21, negro porter at a hotel here, today pleaded guilty to a charge of murder and criminal attack upon Mrs. Florence Buck, 37, Grimm's Landing, W. Va., when arraigned before Mayor Storment. Peppers was immediately removed to the Ross County Jail at Chillicothe to prevent mob violence. Mrs. Buck was strangled early Monday morning as she slept in a room of the hotel at which Peppers was employed.

According to the confession attributed to the porter, he attacked Mrs. Buck, and strangled her with a wet towel. Her nude body was discovered late Monday morning by her sister, Mrs. Loyal Wright, who occupied an adjoining room with Edward J. Costello, 27, Ashland, Ky.

Money in the woman's purse was not taken. Peppers, according to police, declared Mrs. Buck neglected to lock the outside door of her room.

Costello is under $2,000 bond awaiting hearing charges of violating the Mann white slave act. Mrs. Wright was released from custody soon after the tragedy.

CONTAGION VICTIM'S FATHER BEING HELD

Mother and Son Driven from Home by Drunkard, Evidence Shows

Fremont, Aug. 20—While funeral services were being conducted here today for Six-year-old Raymond Smith, thought to be a victim of infantile paralysis, his father, R. H. Smith, remained in the city jail serving a sentence on a charge of assault.

According to evidence at Smith's trial, he returned to his home at Bradner, near here, Tuesday, in a drunken condition and after striking his wife, chased her and his son from the house. They took refuge in a hen house.

Smith's hearing was held Thursday. The boy died Friday.

Physicians reported the exposure may have induced the disease, but county officers declare they will bring no further charges against the father because of the limited knowledge of the disease causes.

A Change is Taking Place in the Automotive Industry

WITHIN the past few years public demand turned the tide from high pressure to balloon tires—from two-wheel to four-wheel brakes—from five to seven-bearing crankshafts.

Now experienced motorists demand a better type of power plant with freedom from valve and carbon annoyance and less mechanical trouble—a type of motor that is quiet and stays quiet after many thousands of miles. They want unusual performance and activity in a motor that will maintain its efficiency indefinitely.

The Knight sleeve-valve engine, long used in many of the finest cars of Europe and America, is recognized as the superior and ultimate type of motor by both European and American automotive engineers, because it has the qualities which motorists need.

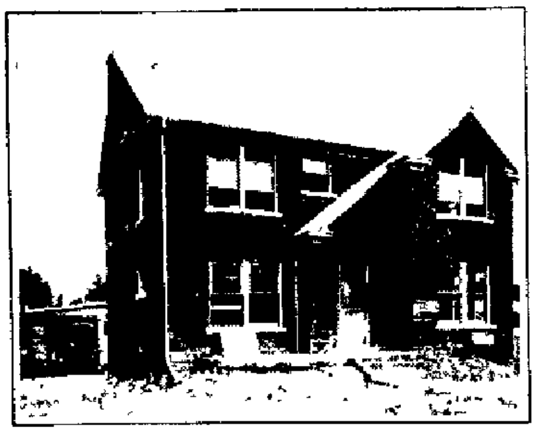
FIREPROOF BRICK HOME



Born Brothers Stressing Construction of Fireproof Homes For Safety, Economy

Marion Contractors and Builders Assert That Upkeep Rather Than Original Price Should Determine Type of Dwelling; Cite Advantages of Structures

Construction of fireproof homes as a measure of both safety and economy is being stressed by Born Brothers, Marion builders and contractors. They are advocates of the theory that it is the upkeep rather than the initial cost that should determine the selection of a home.

The picture of the home above is the latest of the many homes built by Born Brothers on [illegible] St. It is a modest American up-to-date home of brick [illegible]

ANTHONY LAUNDRY BUYS WHIPPET TRUCK

Light Delivery Car Added to Fleet Used by Local Concern

The new Whippet truck purchased from the McDonald Motor Co. brings the fleet of the Anthony Laundry Company to six trucks. The Whippet is [illegible] a light delivery vehicle [and] is the first of this type in Marion.

The six trucks, five regular and one extra, are [illegible] to call for and deliver the laundry, dry cleaning and carpet and rug cleaning of the Anthony Laundry. All the trucks are in service in Marion city. Banners on the front of the trucks call attention to some special feature of the company's service.

[illegible] W. [illegible], secretary-manager of the Ohio Brick & Tile Association, highly compliments Born Brothers on publicity in promoting the building of brick homes.

Mr. [illegible] says: "I have been keenly interested in reading a clipping from the [illegible] issue of the Marion Star in which you have been given credit for the statement that although the initial cost of building a brick home is possibly six per cent higher, the general upkeep is so greatly reduced that in a few years the house of brick construction is by far the cheaper with the resale value at a much higher figure. This is splendid publicity, exactly the kind that should be freely broadcast throughout the United States, and I want to compliment you most heartily on the effective way in which you have put it over."

Born Brothers not only build brick homes well but homes of all types with whatever design or construction materials the client desires.

Five Documents Circulated by Chiropractors in Union County Canceled

Marysville, Aug. 20—In the case of the Union County Board of Elections versus C. H. Layzell, Marysville chiropractor, to determine the correctness of names signed to an initiative petition, to bring about a law for a separate board of examiners to examine chiropractors, Common Pleas Judge E. This cancelled 500 names out of a total of 600 signatures upon the grounds that the circulator of the petitions made the affidavit that the signatures were made in his presence, while as a matter of fact they were circulated and signed in the presence of a co-worker with Dr. Layzell. BANK OBSERVES 64TH BIRTHDAY

Upper Sandusky Institution Fourth Oldest of Kind on Record

Upper Sandusky, Aug 20—The rare distinction of being the fourth oldest national bank on record in the United States is claimed by the First National bank of this city which is celebrating its sixty-fourth anniversary tonight. The bank will remain open after regular hours to receive the general public.

A look at the records show the bank being organized on Aug. 20, 1863 as a National bank having existed for a short time before that under the name "The Exchange Bank of Upper Sandusky" with headquarters in a room to the south of the present banking home. The new organization started business in the rooms, which it still occupies.

W. P. Reile President

The first Board of Directors included David Harpster, Sylvester Watson, M. H. Gillette, Davids Ayers, J. D. Sears, Thomas V. Reber, Thomas C. Dye and Marion Morral. In the organization T. V. Reber, father of the late Albert Reber was made president and Sylvester Watson was made cashier. He became president upon the retirement of Reber. J. G. Roberts became the next president and served many years. In 1905, his death brought about the installment of Curtis B. Hare with Charles Plumb as cashier. Upon Plumb's death C. E. Frederick was elected cashier and continues in this capacity. Advanced years and failing health forced Mr. Hare to give up active duties a year ago, since which time W. P. Reile has been the head of organization.

No Borrowed Money

Bank capital has increased from $70,000 to $105,000 with a surplus of the same amount. The books today show resources of $1,195,000 with not a cent of borrowed money.

The present organization of the bank consists of the following board of directors: Curtis B. Hare, president, of the board, Ames Walker, vice president, W. P. Reile, M. H. Brinkerhoff, J. Craig Bowman, J. E. Maxwell, D. E. Maxwell, Thomas Reber, B. F. Main. Albert Reber, one of the vice presidents died the past week.

BENGALS WIN NINTH STRAIGHT; ONLY ONE GAME BEHIND NATS

Detroit Tigers Fighting for Second Place in American League

NEW YORK, Aug. 20—With the standing of the National League pennant contenders remaining unchanged as a result of an even break in yesterday's "crucial" double headers, the Detroit Tigers grabbed the baseball spotlight today. The battering Bengals have won nine straight games and are only one game behind the Senators, with the ambitious Athletics crowding both teams for second honors.

"Dazzy" McWeeney, of the Brooklyn Club, trimmed Chicago 6 to 1 after Sheriff Blake had whitewashed Brooklyn in the opener, 3 to 0. Poss Petty, Blake's opponent, has not been given a single run to work out in his last four starts.

Pittsburgh showed a powerful, concentrated attack in plastering the Giants 9 to 3. Manager Donie Bush forgot all about slapping that $50 fine on Cuyler when Kiki, a pinch hitter, swatted a triple with the bases loaded. Grimes won a 5 to 2 decision over Ray Kremer in the nightcap, however. In the opener Hornsby hit his 21st homer.

Pitching Classic

The pitching classic of the day was contributed by Kent Greenfield of the Braves, who held the Cardinals to two hits. Boston won 6 to 1. With Sherdel on the mound, the Cards had a picnic in the nightcap and won 6 to 1.

The Phils dropped two to the Reds, 5 to 3 and 1 to 0. Walker's single gave Red Lucas the decision over Jack Scott in the nightcap.

Lou Gehrig's 39th homer came with the bases empty and Hoyt of the Yankees lost a 3 to 2 to Blankenship of the White Sox.

The speeding Tigers whipped the Red Sox twice, 5 to 2 and 14 to 7. The Red Sox pulled a triple play in the second game.

The Browns hung up their third straight victory over the slipping Senators, 6 to 1. Wingard helped win his own game with a homer and a double.

Rube Walberg, of the Athletics, also won his own game with a single that beat Cleveland, 5 to 3.

KIWANIS BEAT K. OF P. TEAM IN LAST GAME

Play Off Postponed Tilt in Spite of Unfavorable Weather

The Kiwanis last night defeated the K. of P.'s in the final game of the Commercial League and took full charge of third place. The final score was 6 to 5.

Bob Peadon pitched for the K. of P. team and John Hane was moundsman for the winners. The game was played in spite of the unfavorable weather so that the schedule of postponed contests might be completed.

According to the standing of the K. of P. team and Kappa Alpha Phis have another game but whether or not it will be played is uncertain. The Little Word Series starts next week.

Here's the standing now:

THAT [illegible] Fan Spicer, McLain and [illegible] the best pitcher to make his appearance at Lincoln Park so far this season, Comstock, will delight Marion [illegible] Sunday afternoon when the [illegible] line up with the Marion Eagles in a double-header.

The Motors have played Marion three times this year and fans who have seen them in action will readily admit that they have the best set of batters to oppose the local team so far this season as well as a pitching staff that's hard to beat.

[illegible] defeated Marion's [illegible] here July 3, and Marion fans [illegible] Another duel of the same nature is booked for Sunday afternoon at 1:30, when the first contest will be called. The first game will go the full trip of nine innings while the second game, to start immediately after the first is completed, will go only seven innings. Reese will hurl the second tilt for the Eagles. He's the only Marion pitcher who has been able to defeat the Toledo club this season.

Motors Best

The Toledo Olds Motors probably are the best semi-pro team booking out of the northwestern Ohio city. They have lost only a few games this season and play a number of times each week as well as on Sunday. They have defeated Lima on one occasion this year and have trimmed Marion two out of three.

McLain will be remembered as the [illegible] who helped himself to three of Main's deliveries several weeks ago when he [illegible] a [illegible] over the left field fence three times out of four trips to the plate. He's still hitting [illegible]

First For Eagles

It will be the first game for the Marion team under the new [illegible] Eagles but it is probable that the [illegible] team which made its appearance against Lima two weeks ago will take the [illegible] Sunday. That club looked like a set of professionals at Lima and are likely to look the same way when they get into the battle with the Motors.

One thing is certain. Marion baseball fans are assured of two fast and hard played games.

Now go, my workers, and good luck go with you. Would that I might fly at your head, but my duties lie within the palace walls."

With a wave of her wing Her Majesty dismissed her subjects, then suddenly brought them flying back to her side.

"And, oh, my little brown workers!" buzzed she. "Beware the big, bold brigand! This is the sort of a day when he lurks by the highway, hidden from all but the sharpest eye! If you value your lives, fly high, or you and your store of honey will never come back. Beware! Beware of the bold brigand!"

With this warning the Queen Bee sent her workers winging on their way off into the golden sunlight.

Buying of General Motors Features Market

WALL STREET IS EXPECTING CHEAP MONEY

Improvement in Trade and Crops Reported in Week-End Reviews

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks firm; industrial stocks firm; domestic bonds inactive; foreign bonds firm; grain firm; copper firm; oil irregular; cotton strong; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange firm.

New York, Aug. 20—Aggressive buying of General Motors stock was the outstanding incident in an otherwise dull and featureless session of the stock market today.

Wall Street freely predicted a 3 per cent. call money market as evidences of an increasing volume of unemployed funds were presented. Since easy money has been the most powerful factor in the advance of stock and bond prices over the past year or so, the assurance of the continuance of this factor was favorably received in the speculative district. Improvement in trade and crops was reported in the week-end business reviews.

G. M. in Spotlight

General Motors monopolized the spotlight as the stock changed hands in numerous blocks of 500 to 5,000 shares in a steady advance to above 230. The new stock sold up to 116¼, completing a gain of 3½ points since listing on the big board yesterday. Reflecting the huge profits accruing to Dupont Corporation through its large holdings of General Motors stock, Dupont was also in demand at a range of prices about 4 points above the previous close.

The volume of week-end profit taking was comparatively small, and the market lapsed into dullness in the second hour.

A few of the railroad stocks and high grade industrials responded with higher prices to persistent investment buying, while stocks of the mercantile companies and popular motor car manufacturers inaugurated a new advance. Chrysler sold above 57 and Woolworth led strong move in the mercantile shares.

Cotton sold up to new high for most of the futures on unfavorable southern weather and strong Liverpool cables.

TEACHERS TO MEET SEPT. 5

City Schools To Open First Week in September: Textbooks Received

Only 11 more genuine "summer" days are left for Marion youngsters before school-doors are again thrown open and, with books under their arms, Marion's younger population will assemble for another year of learning.

Textbooks for all Marion public schools have been received at Harding High School, Jesse H. Mason, school superintendent, said today, and are ready for distribution to the various schools.

The opening of school has been set for the first week in September, school activities to begin this year with a general meeting of the teaching force at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Sept. 5, at Harding High School. At that time final assignments will be announced and arrangements made for the individual schools by their teachers and principal. Principals will meet at 1 o'clock at the school for a session to precede the general meeting.

Examination Set

All local teachers not holding a certificate good in the city for the coming year are expected to be present at the examination to be conducted by the City Board of Examiners Friday, Sept. 2, Mr. Mason announced.

Tuesday, Sept. 6, is the day when school pupils and [illegible] will [illegible] to the meeting of [illegible] held [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] for the school [illegible] work has been completed. Harding High School and Central High School students will doubtless try out the school program for the year, changing classes as they will each school day for the coming nine months.

The superintendent's office has been open for some weeks and the High School and Junior High School principals' offices will open next week.

September 6 is also the date of the opening of the majority of county schools and of St. Mary's Parochial School in the city.

STATE HEALTH AID CHECKS ARE REDUCED

City and County Each Receives $865: Formerly Were Given $1,000

Semi-annual payments of the state for support of county and city health departments have been temporarily reduced, it was disclosed today when checks for the second half of 1927 were received by local officials.

Marion County's share of the distribution is $865, half the annual amount paid to the city health department. In the past the semi-annual remittances have been $1,000.

A similar reduction was necessary throughout the state, according to reports from state headquarters at Columbus. This is due to an increase in the number of communities where health departments have qualified for shares of the state fund. The money is prorated among the various communities.

It is expected that next year the remittances to the Marion city and county health departments will be re-established on the $1,000 schedule.

The state payments go to counties and cities which contribute a stipulated amount of money from their own treasuries and maintain other required standards in health work. This city and county were among the first to measure up to requirements.

ONE DWELLING IN PERMIT LIST

Slight Increase in Building Activities Evident Here During Week

Building activities in Marion showed a slight increase during the past week when [illegible] permits, [illegible] an estimated cost of $4,175 were issued compared with the preceding week when [illegible] permits were issued representing an estimated cost of $2,[illegible].

One dwelling of an estimated cost of $[illegible] was included in the [illegible] permits [illegible] for by the permit [illegible] during the past week. There were also three garages of an estimated value of $[illegible], a [illegible] store front of an estimated cost of $[illegible] and a remodeled dwelling of an estimated cost of $[illegible].

Building activities in Marion [illegible] at a low point. Builders, however, refuse to take a pessimistic view of the [illegible] but [illegible] it is only slightly more quiet than the month of August of other years. This month they say is [illegible] quiet.

Interest Lacking

Building started in the spring is nearing completion and with many people on vacations, interest in starting building at this time of year, is lacking. The spring and fall, especially the former, is the time when the most interest is shown in new buildings and builders are pinning their faith to a revival of building activities later in the year.

The situation is similar throughout the country. Large cities are reporting a decline in building due to practically the same conditions that exist in Marion. Lumber dealers and building supply men are optimistic and are buying materials and making plans in anticipation of the revival of interest in building with the coming of cool weather.

A survey of building activities during the summer show, builders say, a situation very similar to that of other summers with practically the same amount of building, with the exception of dwellings of which there was a slight increase this year over last.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR NAVY BAND CONCERT

Kadgar Grotto Sponsors Appearance Here Scheduled for Oct. 18

Completion of arrangements for a concert to be given here on Tuesday, Oct. 18, by the United States Navy Band was announced today by officers of Kadgar Grotto, local Masonic organization, which is sponsoring the event.

The Navy Band, generally recognized as one of the world's best military musical organizations, is to play at the Chautauqua pavilion. It is expected that the concert, probably the most important event of its kind in Marion this year, will attract an audience which will fill the pavilion to capacity.

Kadgar Grotto was able to secure the band for Oct. 18, one of the few open dates in its annual tour, largely because of Marion being the home town of former President Harding.

The Navy Band was a particular favorite of President Harding and was chosen to accompany him on his ill-fated trip to Alaska. On this trip its concerts were heard for the first time as far west as the Pacific Coast. Shortly after the band's return, requests began pouring into Washington requesting that it broadcast some of its programs. This was done and within two years the band was a favorite of millions of radio fans.

just what I read in since Cal made the little slip of paper chosen word [illegible] instead of something there just [illegible] in the papers [illegible] it serious [illegible] much more [illegible]

last week I told you [illegible] a visit from [illegible] of Denver, and [illegible] to ring in a lit [illegible] readers are right and both ears throw [illegible] pup versus women [illegible] as only a man of [illegible] with such matters. Well the Judge come [illegible] the else of the [illegible] of this. Take a wife [illegible] idea.

Dogs Out

I thought [illegible] started in on his life [illegible] Court and then I [illegible] him drift into rela[illegible] to Male and Female [illegible] little fellow with a [illegible] head speaks with [illegible] not acquired [illegible] the first [illegible] founded in '00. [illegible] original one. [illegible] this for he didn't [illegible] already) [illegible] play Denver on the [illegible] I used to go up [illegible] hear the old way he [illegible] of [illegible] cases [illegible] was [illegible] I [illegible] had always [illegible] his work. We [illegible] about cases that [illegible] from court and [illegible] I [illegible] listening [illegible] I [illegible] but [illegible] stuff that I was [illegible] hear about [illegible] or hear [illegible] time or anywhere. In fact [illegible] did hear. But [illegible] have much chance of [illegible] He [illegible] of the [illegible]

Places Boys on Honor

He had sent 1,000 [illegible] Boys to the Reform School all on their [illegible] with no guard or anyone with them and only six had ever run away and they come back and apologized and he sent them up all on the next [illegible] they got there. Now when 1,000 [illegible] have confidence in a man I [illegible] going to start in [illegible] him as quick as all the clergy [illegible] I don't believe there is [illegible] of Judge Lindsey's critics that could [illegible] boys to even go and get a dish of Ice Cream with them. [illegible] He don't really run a court [illegible] runs a kind of [illegible] Most of his cases [illegible] in his private office or in his home. [illegible] with him.

Then the kids were greatly interested when he [illegible] about [illegible] they were going to [illegible] because he would not tell [illegible] what a twelve-year-old boy had told him in confidence. He claimed that he never repeated what was told to him by all the [illegible] would be breaking [illegible] fined him a thousand dollars for [illegible]

I wanted an earful of this "Take a wife home on approval" idea.

Got Him Wrong, Judge Says

[illegible] Well the [illegible] [illegible] strictly advocate [illegible] [illegible] trial marriages. I am for [illegible] and [illegible] marriages [illegible] marriages that will stay more [illegible]

Well that took all the spice out of the [illegible] as far as I was concerned. [illegible] the Judge [illegible] that if one [illegible] up to [illegible] [illegible] her or him what [illegible] the half witted parties might [illegible] I would have [illegible] better [illegible] [illegible] Aimee up [illegible] for a [illegible] something snappy for [illegible] readers. Then he told us:

"There are six million young men between the ages of 21 and [illegible] in this country that are not married. [illegible] [illegible] they are not married is principally economic, that they [illegible] feel that they can't support a wife in the manner that everybody else looks like they are supporting one and that they will bring children into the world which they can't properly care for, and another reason is that they [illegible] [illegible] matrimonial [illegible] [illegible] perhaps their own [illegible]

[illegible] For Birth Control [illegible] that 75 per cent [illegible] at the present all [illegible] this knowledge [illegible] the [illegible] seem [illegible] In fact he must [illegible] they must [illegible] extra [illegible] [illegible] removed [illegible] all offset the [illegible] produced by lack of knowledge of the poor. He claims that the whole thing has to [illegible] through knowledge.

It all [illegible] mighty plausible and [illegible] anything but radical or a [illegible] I was wondering how he was [illegible] out any scheme where [illegible] was actually free. He seemed to me to be plotting against these six million to get some way to get them hooked.

Then I brought up the divorce question. I [illegible] to get to that kinder stuff as my wife was right there, so I worked that pretty slick. I slipped it in [illegible] Not that I am interested in the thing personally, but I [illegible] on the divorce thing Judge [illegible] let my wife know that I [illegible] divorce [illegible]

Plenty of Common Sense

Well he [illegible] a lot of common sense in his divorce plan. He wants more [illegible] in Divorces and less [illegible] He claims that 80 per cent of the divorces are obtained by collusion. I always thought it was "Collusion." What he means by that is that they are faked and framed up, that both parties agreed to something before it ever went to court. There are only [illegible] States [illegible] [illegible] He says that [illegible] cases. He says [illegible] [illegible] the tax [illegible] He says [illegible] lawyer [illegible] concerned.

Admired by Roosevelt

I tell [illegible] a human [illegible] great [illegible] felt that [illegible] than [illegible] where [illegible] Girls.

All [illegible] but [illegible] real [illegible] right [illegible] than all [illegible] If every one [illegible] saved [illegible] many as [illegible] would be [illegible] for we would [illegible] here.

I wish we [illegible] Beverly Hills [illegible] use [illegible] thing [illegible] figuring [illegible] as they harvest [illegible] comes [illegible] Judge I will [illegible] down there.

LIBRARY USED MORE BY WOMEN THAN MEN

Report Also Shows That Adults Read More Than Children

More women than men and more adults than children ask [illegible] of the City Library according to the [illegible] reports issued by the head of that organization. The largest number of books are read by employed women and the next largest by housewives, statistics show.

Despite the fact that the juvenile department of the local library is unusually large and complete and the child circulation large in proportion to the population, still more adults borrow books during the course of a month than children, librarians say.

Children however are prone to read adult literature, one of the greatest problems confronting city librarians being that of maintaining the adult department as strictly adult. A not uncommon sight is that of older persons in the juvenile department [illegible] in the basement of the library searching for books to suit their less sophisticated tastes.

The largest circulation of the entire library is in the fiction class of books in the adult department, the class of books known as "light" reading or reading usually for pleasure.

Important Matters Facing Church To Be Voted on at Delaware M. E. Conference

Many Prominent Religious Workers and Educators To Address Joint Session of Ohio, Northeast and West Ohio Groups from Sept. 6 to 12

Delaware, O. Aug. 20. Important matters of church policy will be voted upon and Ohio's delegates to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1928 will be elected at the joint sessions of the Ohio, Northeast Ohio, and West Ohio conferences of the Methodist Church to be held here Sept. 6 to 12.

The program for the joint conference made public here today includes names of many speakers prominent in religious and educational work and has as its theme "Christian Education."

Each of the three conferences will transact its regular business in separate sessions and the three bodies will join for a combined educational and inspirational program to be held in Gray Chapel at Ohio Wesleyan. Bishop Joseph F. Berry will preside over the sessions of the Ohio Conference, Bishop William F. McDowell over those of the Northeast Ohio, and Bishop Luther B. Wilson over those of the West Ohio Conference.

First in History

The joint meeting, which is the first of its kind in the history of Methodism, is being held here because this city is the only one having connections representing three different conferences and because it is the seat of Ohio Wesleyan University. Ohio Wesleyan is not only the first and largest Methodist school in Ohio but the only one jointly controlled by the three conferences.

The list of speakers for the joint sessions of the conferences includes Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club; Dr. C. J. Galpin of the Department of Agriculture, Washington; Charles F. Miller, state superintendent of public instruction in Indiana; Bishop Warren Candler of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Senator Frank B. Willis, Charles H. Lewis, former lieutenant governor of Ohio; Dr. Thomas H. Lewis, president of the General conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, Dr. [illegible] Bishop [illegible] McDowell, [illegible] of the Methodist [illegible] Church [illegible].

'Get Heavy', 'Sleep Tight', Slogans at Kiwanis Camp

WOULD you sleep in a little filled [illegible] food three times a day for a solid week?

Possibly you wouldn't. Not for a solid week, nor any other time [illegible] lazily.

But a boy or girl who attend the Kiwanis Children's Fresh Air Camp at the Owens farm will, and does.

Gold stars on the huge chart at the camp are numerous, for both the boys and girls. It is one of the successful ways by which officials of the camp have gained an interest in the art of eating among the 27 children there.

Wednesday "Weigh" Day

And in the meantime belts are being lengthened, faces are getting rounder and pounds are being added to the underfed and undernourished youths who have never had the chance to breathe the healthy air of the country.

Every Wednesday is "weigh day" at the camp and at that time is found the result of all of the proper nourishment and eight hours' [illegible] in figures. A gain of eight pounds has been noticed in the weight of one of the children of the camp.

So actively interested are the youths in gaining weight each week, that some times they do not trust the food alone to bring their totals up on the chart. Small stones were found in the pocket of one of the boys at the last weighing.

Prize for Biggest Gain

All of the campers, girls as well as boys, are eager to add weight to their bodies before the end of the camp, when a foot ball will be awarded to the child who has gained the most in the period.

On the same chart where the gold stars are placed, are a number of crosses which denote which of the youngsters have been getting the required amount of sleep. The crosses are given to the boys and girls when they are asleep during the two rest periods of the day, 10 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 3 p. m.

27 Enrolled

The 15 boys and 12 girls who occupy six tents at the Owens farm are routed out of bed every morning at 7 o'clock and are given breakfast at 7:30 o'clock. Dinner is served at 12 o'clock, noon and supper at 5:30 o'clock p. m.

Miss Florette Pifer, Rockford, dietitian of the camp, is in charge of all of the food which is given to the youthful campers. Miss Doris Bandley is recreational and physical director.

This year's camp at the farm will end next Friday afternoon. It has been running since July 5, and is being sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

Court Adopts "Proverbs of Solomon" to Instruct Wayward Boys and Girls

HISTORY recognizes King Solomon as a personage of exceptional intellect in spite of the fact that he exercised his privilege to wed several hundred spouses.

In fact it would seem that this circumstance furnishes convincing proof of his tact and wisdom. Any man who finds it possible to support a domestic circle of that magnitude and at the same time get along with a [illegible] showing of peace and amity deserves a lot of credit.

This would be substantiated by testimony from any of the multitude of husbands whose inability to manage one matrimonial partner has led them into the divorce courts of this country.

Possibly the cost of living in Solomon's time was less than in this day and age, and that would help some. But woman's make-up—not referring to lipsticks and other modern decorative equipment—has not altered greatly enough through the intervening years and it is reasonable to assume that he had the same feminine idiosyncrasies to contend with that the husband of today worries over in his frequently futile effort to keep matrimony from becoming a pugilistic spectacle.

"Know His Stuff"

The purpose of this preamble has been to place stress upon the fact that Solomon did, in truth and fact, "know his stuff" when it came to managing a household of unusual proportions. Which would indicate, also, that he must have been a capable individual in other spheres and was fairly well qualified to hand out advice.

"The Proverbs of Solomon" record all of the rules and philosophy necessary as a guide to good conduct and complete happiness. For that reason, they have been adopted in the Juvenile Court of Marion County as a code of counsel and instruction to help wayward boys and girls follow the right course.

Neatly bound booklets printed by the American Bible Society and containing the complete text of the Great King's words of wisdom are kept on hand by Judge J. B. McNeal, who gives a copy to each boy and girl who is brought before him for correction.

Idea Original

The idea is original with Judge McNeal. Heads of other juvenile courts hand out their personal advice, and so does the Marion jurist, for that matter. But he backs up his own opinion with the record of Solomon's inspired counsel.

He tells the youngsters that while The Proverbs were written many centuries ago, the rules of conduct contained therein apply to present-day conditions as much as in Solomon's time.

The judge believes that most of the boys and girls read the booklet and profit from it.

About 150 youngsters come before Judge McNeal annually as the result of misbehavior, sometimes of a serious nature and in other cases not so serious. Some are sent to penal institutions but the majority are placed on probation. These probationers are required to report to the judge or his assistants on an average of once a week to show that they are conducting themselves properly.

Juvenile court work has reached the point in Marion County where it constitutes fully half of the probate judge's duties, the local jurist states.

Suggests Changes

Judge McNeal is of the opinion that the time is not far distant when a domestic relations court should be established in the county to handle not only juvenile cases but divorce proceedings. The judge would also have authority to act in an advisory capacity for husbands and wives who are on the verge of separation and to effect reconciliation wherever possible.

Judge McNeal does not point out any particular passages in the book of Proverbs for the benefit of his youthful wards. He leaves it to them to read through the volume and select the [illegible] their pages best.

Probably there are some adults who have never been before a juvenile court or any other tribunal, the latter [illegible] being skillful enough to keep their questionable actions under cover, who might also profit by reading the book of [illegible], Judge McNeal thinks.

Few Excerpts

For instance, here are a few sample excerpts:

"My son, hear the instruction of thy father and forsake not the law of thy mother."

"My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not."

"The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked, but he blesseth the habitation of the just."

"The wise shall inherit glory; but shame shall be the promotion of fools."

"The way of the wicked is as darkness; they know not at what they stumble."

"For wisdom is better than rubies, and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it."

"He that walketh uprightly walketh surely: but he that perverteth his ways shall be known."

"Riches profit not in the day of wrath: but righteousness delivereth from death."

"A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger."

"Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall."

"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

"The wicked flee when no man pursueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion."

"Be not among the winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: for the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty: and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags."

ARTHUR F. KING ACCEPTS POST

Will Represent Osgood and Excavator Companies on Pacific Coast

Plans which have been under consideration for several months culminated today when Arthur F. King took over the sale of the products of the Osgood Co. and the General Excavator Co. for the Pacific Coast section.

Mr. King, who recently resigned as director of sales of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. has incorporated the Arthur F. King Co. in association with the Owens interests, which control the Osgood and General Excavator Companies. Within a few weeks he will move to San Francisco where the chief operating office of his company will be located.

Outlines Plans

Mr. King stated today that the object of the new arrangement is to make a material increase in Osgood and General Excavator Co. sales in the West.

"The Osgood Co.," he said, "has for many years enjoyed a large business in eastern sections of the country, but mainly because of production capacity has never established adequate sales in the West."

"I shall start immediately," Mr. King stated, "to establish Osgood machinery west of the Rockies on equally as good a basis as it is everywhere known in the East; and I am confident increased business for Marion will result."

Distribution will be established in all the chief cities of California, Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho and Montana and it soon will be as easy for western owners of Osgood products to obtain service and repair parts as it now is for eastern users who are taken care of from the Marion office, according to plans outlined in announcement of Mr. King's appointment.

Returns From Tour

Mr. King has just returned from a several weeks tour of the entire territory, and reports that the business outlook is most promising. The General Excavator Co. which has already established a large market for its gasoline cranes and shovels will, through the King company, expand its western business.

Distributing centers will be opened immediately in such important cities as Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix, Seattle, Portland, Spokane, Boise and Butte.

"The General Excavator," Mr. King states, "is unique in that it is the only small machine built to the standards of the larger machines which have come into such wide distribution."

"We already have distributors competing with each other to handle the full line of Generals," he said, "and I [illegible] an excellent General business because they already have earned a good reputation and are in great demand."

The Owens interests were among the first to recognize the growing market for gasoline excavators. As a result, the Osgood volume has long been largely in gasoline machines. During recent [illegible] this gasoline equipment has gained high regard among contractors and the construction industries.

BUICK for 1928

Buick for 1928 gets away in traffic like an arrow from a bow!

Watch the Buicks next time you drive downtown. See how easily they step out in front when the signal changes. And note how they give other cars the slip in the friendly rivalry of traffic.

Truly amazing performance! But amazing only in comparison with other cars. For in every phase of performance Buick for 1928 is equally adept—in the ease with which it attains, and maintains, the highest speeds—in the way it breasts the steepest hills—and in the way it ignores sand, deep mud and rough going.

Every day, in every city in the land, Buick for 1928 is demonstrating the superiority of the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine—the engine that is vibrationless beyond belief.

You cannot say you know the full meaning of "performance" until you've driven a Buick for 1928. The nearest Buick dealer will gladly arrange a trial.

TRACTION CASE BEING HEARD

Another Round in Dispute Over Crossing Opens in Appeals Court

Another round in the legal battle between the C. D. & M. Electric Co. and the county commissioners over plans for extension of White Oak rd. over the C. D. & M. tracks south of the city was started in the court of appeals this morning by the traction company.

The case was carried to the court of appeals on a petition in error filed by the C. D. & M. attorney, William P. Moloney. He cites five alleged errors in proceedings in the court of common pleas where a decision was handed down in favor of the county. In his decision Judge Scofield of the common pleas court granted the county authority to establish a grade crossing for the White Oak rd. extension.

The petition in error alleges that the decision was contrary to the weight of evidence and the law.

The court of appeals procedure means that it will be at least several months will elapse before a final ruling is obtained in the crossing controversy, which has been pending more than a year.

Want Extension

The county seeks to extend White Oak rd. to the Prospect rd., providing a thoroughfare from the southwest to the west section of Marion. Local real estate dealers and other owners of property along White Oak rd. are assisting the county in its effort to have the thoroughfare opened.

Should the extension be authorized finally, the county will proceed with improvement of the road, the commissioners state.

The C., D. & M. opposes establishment of a grade crossing, maintaining that it would handicap operation of the traction cars and be a menace to traffic safety.

Denies Responsibility

William H. Somerlot, defendant in a suit for $5000 damages brought in the court of common pleas recently by Logan Emerson, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Ethelyn M. Cowgill, filed his answer this morning denying all responsibility for the accident which resulted in Mrs. Cowgill's death.

She was killed on June 20, 1926, when the automobile in which she was riding was hit by a Pennsylvania railway train at Scott's crossing in Allen County.

The suit is based on the claim that Somerlot is liable for damages because the automobile was his property and was being driven by his [illegible], Cecil Somerlot.

Somerlot's answer was filed through Mouser, Young & Mouser.

Bond Fixed

Judge Scofield this morning fixed the bond of James Barclay, a prisoner at the Marion County jail, at $100 and an effort is being made to furnish the bond and obtain Barclay's release. He was bound over to the grand jury on July 8 on an affidavit charging him with defrauding an innkeeper. Application for bond was filed through his attorney, I. F. Myers.

Denies Charges

Matthew G. Douce, defendant in a suit for divorce brought by Arena Hinds Douce, filed his answer in the court of common pleas yesterday in which he denies all allegations and asks for dismissal of the petition.

Appointment

Nora Sharp has been appointed [illegible] of the estate of Clarence Sharp.

Friday, five dollars was paid to anyone who had fifteen wrappers. The wrappers were very easy to find in Marion, according to the report of the clowns last night.

NO NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS

Officials Believe Spread of Disease Has Been Checked in County

Marion has no new cases of [illegible] [illegible] health department [illegible] However [illegible] W. J. W[illegible] [illegible] the danger [illegible] and [illegible] all the [illegible] curative measures [illegible] needed [illegible]

Urge Caution

Because of the unusual nature of the disease, however, it is being urged [illegible] that children [illegible] and that all other [illegible] be used [illegible] outbreak might occur at any time.

[illegible] rapid recovery from the effects of the disease the health com[illegible] this morning, is that of [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] who [illegible] able to walk [illegible] she suffers is a slight limp in [illegible]

The [illegible] case was the second to be reported and is regarded by the health commissioner as the least severe of the four cases reported in the city. [illegible] the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond [illegible] Summit st., which was from the outset [illegible] reported to the health department is regarded by health authorities as the second least severe. The little child is [illegible] from partial paralysis [illegible] leg and still is confined to her bed.

Most Severe Case

The case of John Mosher, Jr., the [illegible] son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosher, [illegible] is the most severe to be reported. Nancy [illegible] is recovering slowly and her case is thought by physicians to be second in severity to the Mosher case.

It is now thought by local health officials that tourists who are constantly passing through the city from all sections of the state might have played a part in the outbreak of the disease in this city.

The state of West Virginia last night issued a quarantine order against the state of Ohio as a result of the spread of the disease throughout state, particularly in the Ohio river valley. The order bars children under 15 years of age from entering the state of West Virginia and also prevents children from Wheeling entering Ohio.

FIND DISEASE IN HOLMES COUNTY

New Philadelphia, Aug. 20—Appearance of infantile paralysis in Holmes County and the report of two additional cases at Uhrichsville, Tuscarawas County were latest developments in the epidemic in this section today. There are now 17 cases of the disease in Uhrichsville, according to Dr. Joseph Blickensderfer, county health officer.

A carnival scheduled to be held at Roanoke near here next week has been forbidden to show, Dr. Blickensderfer has announced.

Cleveland, Aug. 20—Twelve cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in Cleveland within the past 10 days according to Health Commissioner H. L. Rockwood. The situation is not alarming here, Dr. Rockwood said, in view of the number of cases that have been reported during the summer months of previous years.

COAL PRICES WILL SOAR AGAIN, CLAIM

Local Dealer Says Fuel Costs Will Continue To Advance

Predictions that coal prices in Marion this fall will soar to the same height of quotations on the fuel last October were made today by O. F. Seiler, [illegible] part owner of Baldauf & Seiler[illegible] Co., N. Greenwood st.

"In view of the fact that about 150,000 miners of the coal producing regions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois are now idle and hopes for reconciliation with the operators are not good, coal in Marion is bound [illegible] rise as in price," declared [illegible]

Quotations on coal in Marion has gone up [illegible] cents on the ton in the past two weeks. No Ohio coal is being sold in local markets, according to [illegible]

General prices on soft coal last October ranged from $8 to $11 with the latter mark being set on the Poca[illegible] grade. At the present time that variety is being sold at $8 in most Marion markets.

Many Marion residents have been taking advantage of the warning sent out by coal operators and have been filling the cellar coal bins in preparing for the winter.

PROTECTION OF RURAL WATER SUPPLY STRESSED

Importance of protecting the water supply on farms of the county against pollution is stressed in a communication received today by Dr. N. Sifrit, county health commission, from the United States department of health.

The communication announces that the United States Health Service has issued a bulletin on the subject "Good Water for Farm Homes" which is now available for free distribution. Copies may be obtained, the communication states, by any persons writing the surgeon general, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

APPEALS TO FULLER FOR ANOTHER RESPITE

Boston, Aug. 20—Balked in "last [illegible]" [illegible] stay of execution [illegible] Nicola Sacco and Bar[illegible] Vanzetti from Justice James M. After dispatching a plea to the governor, [illegible] Attorney Hill hurried to Beverly Farms to ask Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court for a stay of execution until application to the United States Supreme Court is acted upon.

The latter arrived at the state house when the [illegible] execution was in his Rye Beach, N. H. summer home.

While lawyers for Sacco and Vanzetti were waging [illegible] desperate eleventh hour drive on the federal courts for a stay of execution, Vanzetti was making the grim walls of the death house in States Prison ring with cries of [illegible]

"Seven years of [illegible] Seven years of [illegible]" cried Vanzetti. "I never killed any man. They persecute me."

Prison guards heard the voices of Sacco and Celestino Madeiros from adjoining cells trying to calm the raving man an hour after heart racked noises, [illegible] all three nearer and nearer to a few minutes after midnight next Tuesday morning when they are scheduled to go into eternity.

Sacco and Madeiros succeeded in quieting Vanzetti and after breakfast he slept to await the arrival of his sister, Luigia, who journeyed from Italy to give him a sister's love and consolation and to ask him to seek spiritual consolation which he has refused because of his atheistic beliefs.

Application to Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus. The venerable justice has been the recipient of several death threats and was under guard in his Beverly Farms home. At the time of the ending of the previous respite he stated he was without jurisdiction to grant a writ.

Justice James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in his summer home in Acoaxet, Westport Harbor, had under advisement an application for an order of stay of execution.

Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the State Superior Court had been consulted on the matter of a stay.

May Ask Respite

Defense Attorney M. A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh was in Washington filing an application for a writ of certiorari.

Faint hope of the legal array of defense lawyers hinged on the plan to have [illegible] review the case under a writ of certiorari, a procedure [illegible] in criminal cases.

Warden William Hendry in States Prison expected no further delay was going ahead with plans for carrying out the death sentence. The execution [illegible] was ordered and the death chair made ready. Witnesses were summoned to be in the Charlestown prison late Monday night.

The police riot squad was mobilized and the riot guns brought out. East Boston tunnel, a tube under the harbor, was carefully watched because police learned certain radicals told their friends to "keep away" from the tunnel. All tunnel trains were guarded.

Throughout the state, a careful check was made by police and fire chiefs on dynamite stores. The big navy T. N. T. plant in Hingham was under extra marine guard.

Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers were reported arranging several demonstrations of protest, these including a general strike on Monday, if the execution is not stayed, another death march in front of the state house and a defy of the mayor's office and the police, who have revoked all permits for Sunday meetings on historic Boston Common.

There were 31 candidates entered in the primary and 27 have filed statements. Only three of the 27 reported campaign expenditures. They were W. H. It is believed that the total of $16.25 represents the entire amount of candidates campaign expenses. The four who have not reported were unopposed in the primary and it is regarded as certain that the campaign cost them nothing.

The $16.25 records show is the smallest expense total ever reported at a local primary.

The four candidates whose statements have not been received are R. M. Murphy, republican renominated for president of council; [illegible] Sexton, democratic nominee for councilman at large; Don B. Clarke, republican nominated for second ward councilman and Charles F. Miller, democratic nominee for fourth ward councilman.

EXPECT TAXES TO BE NEAR MILLION MARK

Semi-Annual Collection Will Be Below Average, Officials Believe

Although the semi-annual tax collection which was recently brought to a close in Marion County is expected to run below the normal average, according to preliminary estimates made by county officials, it is expected to be near the million dollar mark. The total, however, will probably be less than the records of the last few years, it is believed.

The work of checking off delinquencies was completed in the office of County Treasurer J. E. Messenger this week and the tax books are now in the hands of the auditor for compilation of the semi-annual settlement.

It is expected that the settlement tabulation will be finished next week. Following approval of state authorities, distribution of funds will then be made to the various taxing districts of the county.

Nell's Education All Wrong.

A writer in the Forum makes the rather startling suggestion that we would be conferring a blessing upon the girl of today were we to pay less attention to the development of her culture and more to the development of her charm. Put into a sentence his suggestion is "Can culture and cultivate charm!"

Calling the average girl "Nell," the writer holds that we have taught her an infinity of things that are of no use to her and totally failed to teach her almost as many things that she vitally needs. "Nell wants just one thing," he says. "She wants to get married, and she finds it hard to attract such a husband as she desires."

The following, we hope, will be taken for what it is—the utterance of the Forum writer and not ours:

"Unfortunately her cheeks and lips are almost always painted too red and her nose powdered too white for the average taste. She puts tight little waves into her bobbed blonde hair although nature intended it to be worn smooth and close to her head. She has a fondness for red hats which do not become her. Her finger nails are not unimpeachable. Her legs are slightly bowed. She swings her hips too much when she walks. Her table manners are bad, so is her grammar. Her voice has a nasal twang that becomes a whine when she grows excited. And she is undeniably lacking in conversational powers, her stock repertoire [illegible] giving of 'quit your kiddin' and [illegible] man.

"Man—marriageable man—can do [illegible] better, and the consequence is that Nell [illegible] labors under a handicap in the [illegible] stakes and, while she retains her [illegible] life is unhappy."

What's the remedy? Mr. [illegible] writer of the foregoing suggests the [illegible] of the conventional public school and the substitution of the "charm school" [illegible] instructing our Nell in the [illegible] Timbuctoo we must teach her how to [illegible] walk, talk, cook [illegible] home and take care of children. When [illegible] is done he says, "the [illegible] right around the corner."

Frankly, we can not determine to our own satisfaction whether Mr. Carr is serious or merely joshing. We will leave the determination of that to the intuition of our girl readers. But his plan couldn't possibly be much worse than some in use, and it might prove better. Certainly if, as claimed, marriage is the supreme goal of the average young girl, the plan has more than ordinary merit.

Our Unexampled Prosperity.

It has [illegible] that [illegible] year the people of the United States [illegible] eating [illegible] at the same time adding [illegible] to the store they already had on hand.

[illegible] possible that despite the fact that the people of this country have been living higher than they ever did in times past, spending more money than they did in general on just [illegible] luxuries than ever before, they have been adding steadily to their investments and to their savings accounts.

Figures compiled by the department of commerce in Washington and published in our news columns one day this week show that during the past four years new securities to the extent of $24 000 000 000 have been absorbed, $20 000 000 000 of which were domestic and $4 000 000 000 foreign. Of these investments $7 520 000 000 were in public utilities, $[illegible] for building purposes, $3 0[illegible] 000 000 in railroad securities, $1 [illegible] 930 000 in other industrials, $[illegible] 000 000 in oil, $[illegible] 000 000 in iron steel and copper, $150 000 000 in motors and accessories, $[illegible] 000 000 in rubber and $[illegible] 000 000 in shipping.

Still more surprising than this four year showing in the purchasing of new securities is the investment and savings record of the first half of the present year, which broke all peace time records. During the first six months of 1927 statistics prepared by the department of commerce and the federal reserve board show the people of the United States made domestic investments to the extent of $[illegible] 300 000 000 and foreign investments amounting to $789 000 000, a total in excess of $6 000 000 000 and in addition to this added $1 000 000 000 to their savings accounts, which in national banks alone on July 1 were $7 315 000 000.

Such an investment and savings showing as this for the first half of the present year as stated was never before made by the people of this country in time of peace. More than that, such a showing was never made in time of peace by any people. It is without precedent in the entire history of the world.

There are times when one is almost bound to wonder if there may not be too much prosperity in the country. If the prosperous conditions such as we have enjoyed in recent years will not have a tendency to unfit us for meeting, as we would had we not enjoyed such marvelous prosperity, the conditions which will obtain when our prosperity is not so marked. Is it not possible that we are so increasing our investments and amassing savings to such a degree as to decrease the purchasing power from the returns on our investments and lessening the value of the dollars we save?

We do not hold this out as a fact. We do not pretend to be versed in matters of finance. We simply wonder if such a result of our unexampled prosperity is not possible.

It begins to look as though the other teams of the American association have abandoned all thought of crowding Columbus out of the place in the association race to which it so tenaciously holds.

Much Care After Operations.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A California girl wants to know how to care for herself after an operation. She refers to the fact that many persons suffer because of neglect at this important time. She herself is in the early twenties but says she feels sixty, because of a terrible operation.

This letter set me to thinking. Do we doctors neglect to advise our patients as we should, or do the patients neglect to do as they are told? Perhaps it is a little of both.

Of course it is possible to give a complete answer to this inquiry only by having particulars as to the nature and extent of the given operation. But there are certain general rules which apply to the after care of all surgical undertakings in which general anaesthesia is used.

When chloroform, ether or any other profoundly acting anaesthetic is to be given, the stomach and intestines should be empty. Food in the stomach crowds the heart and does not give it full play. The intestines should be unloaded beforehand, so there will be no occasion for the patient to be disturbed by a bowel movement.

After the operation there should be rest and quiet. At first, until the shock of the surgery has passed away, the patient should be kept warm. Hot water bags or bottles and blankets will be needed. Great care must be taken not to burn the unconscious patient.

Later, fewer covers and more air will be appreciated. Good sense must be used in this matter. The comfort of the patient is a pretty safe rule to follow.

Just how soon it will be all right to sit up depends on the operation. But in no case should freedom of this sort be used unless the attending surgeon has advised it. In this matter and all other, his word should be law.

In an abdominal operation, especially where the intestines or pelvic organs are involved, it pays to allow time for healing to take place. Otherwise there will be more scar tissue and more adhesions.

The abdominal cavity is lined with a delicate membrane called the peritoneum. When this is cut or torn, unless it is most carefully stitched, there will be adhesions, two or three neighboring parts growing together in the healing process. The most skillful surgeon may not be able to prevent this.

The active life should be resumed slowly. The healing measures are delayed. There are tenderness and weakness of the parts for a long time. You must be patient with yourself and your doctor. Miracles are not be expected beyond the miracles of modern surgery, and they are many.

DEAD SEA RICHES

Dread, fable and mystery have for centuries hovered about the Dead sea, one of the peculiar natural phenomena of the earth and a part of the deepest chasm on its surface, 1,2[illegible] feet below sea level. An atmosphere of desolation surrounds it, for there is no vegetation on its shores and but little animal life. The area of this lake in southeastern Palestine is 340 square miles and it varies from [illegible] to 1 310 feet in depth. Apparently it was once some 1 150 feet higher than it is now, but decreasing rainfall and increasing temperature resulted in more rapid evaporation and lowered the level of the strange inland sea.

The Jordan river pours 6 000 000 tons of water a day into the Dead sea, but an equal amount evaporates. Centuries of this process have resulted in the water's containing twenty five per cent of solid substances, including common salt, bromide and potassium. No fish can live in it, not even those of salt waters, and countless fresh water fish brought down by the Jordan float dead on its surface. The human body floats like a cork on the strongly buoyant waters. Superstition has said that birds flying over the salty surface drop dead, but this is not true.

Shunned and neglected since time was, the Dead sea seems now at last to be made useful in a utilitarian age which is chemically wise. A news item states that its estimated 2 000 000 tons each of bromide and potassium, used respectively in ethyl gas and fertilizers, will be removed. Millions of tons of magnesium compounds much used in medicine have also been found and presumably will be utilized. Thus a modern era falls heir to the mineral wealth heaped up by nature during countless ages.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A BILLION MORE FOR THE FARMERS

Eugene Meyer, commissioner of the federal farm loan board, has informed the president that farm income this year will be larger by a billion dollars than it was a year ago. Mr. Meyer included cotton in his estimate, but he was basing his conclusion chiefly upon an observation of conditions in the Northwest, which he had studied on a trip from Minneapolis to the Pacific. He found a solid economic foundation for the improved situation.

The picture sketched by Mr. Meyer is a true one in the opinion of many other competent observers, and the prospect of more money in the farmers' pockets is a pleasant one, not only to the farmers, but to the business men of Chicago, who must look to the farms as the market for many of the articles the city has to sell. Without prosperous farmers there can be no lasting prosperity for the city population.—Chicago Tribune.

MR. BROUN AND THE WORLD

If any reader of this newspaper should be inclined to sympathize with Heywood Broun for losing his job with the New York World, this much should be said for the World's publisher, Ralph Pulitzer: A newspaper must have a policy which its writers must respect. The World's policy is extraordinarily liberal. Even in the Sacco-Vanzetti case it has gone as far as any one in demanding that the anarchists receive the benefit of every doubt as to their guilt. It permitted Mr. Broun to express himself twice on what its editors regarded as an extravagant fashion on their behalf. It warned him [illegible] and he sent out more of his unjust vituperation. No newspaper and no man could stand for [illegible]. If a newspaper allowed everybody connected with it to say just what he pleased—as Mr. Broun thinks is that it should—then it might as well quit, for the public would be forced to conclude that it [illegible] convictions and would have no use for it.—Youngstown Vindicator.

TABOO ON BLONDES

The old gag about gentlemen preferring blondes seems to have run its course. At least it has as far as a New York clothing house is concerned, which [illegible] advertised for a stenographer who must [illegible] brunette. The manager of the firm was not at all reticent in giving his views to an enterprising newspaper man who called to discuss the advertisement. "Unreliable, temperamental and [illegible] business office" was the way he summed up the blonde contingent. Only one blonde had been engaged during the past two years, he said, [illegible] because she did not take her hat off [illegible] she had been given the job.

[illegible] likely to start [illegible] argument. [illegible] were very much set up when [illegible] preference for them was trumpeted around the world. [illegible] expression of preference by an employer is a pretty stiff jolt on the chin [illegible]

When American Legion young men go to France for their convention they will see rows of white crosses that mark the graves of their comrades. They will be glad that the United States government is marking these graves. It has shown that it has not forgotten. But how about the rest of us? Have we forgotten? And what is being done here and abroad to make it evident that the sacrifice of those young men whose graves are marked with crosses was not in vain? What are the rest of us doing about that?

There are few things to be said for man in comparison with woman. But man can yet boast that he will not follow fashions blindly and so far as woman. Most of the absurd style in clothing that make us laugh are to be found in women's garments, not in men's. Of course men look funnier than women—they can't help that. That's not a matter of fashion. But men have more courage to wear what they like and for the most part they refuse to be made ridiculous by their tailors.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, Aug. 20—New York has [illegible] of the Main Street Babbitt [illegible] by the figure Sinclair Lewis [illegible] traveling white sox, hailing friends [illegible] thumps on the back and [illegible] new development on Floral Heights.

[illegible] Manhattan product is not always [illegible] and bright. And his life runs in a more [illegible] grooved groove. He stands on the curb [illegible] to wait for every parade and [illegible] remark to his neighbor proudly that he was with the militia for fifteen years.

He goes in for the various "better [illegible]" movements enthusiastically. He can [illegible] was happened to Andy Gump in any [illegible] week. He spreads his two weeks vacation over the year with various afternoons [illegible] to attend lodge celebrations. He is outer [illegible] of the lodge at [illegible]

He brings his lunch to town in a tin box [illegible] attends all the graduation exercises of his children's friends. [illegible] and he knows where one may see the first run reels at twenty five cent [illegible] theater.

He is almost invariably temperate and a loyal worker who rarely gets a rise in salary but expects [illegible] His pencil is held by a vest pocket clip and his small change is in a snap purse. He is on friendly speaking terms with crossing cops, street sweepers, corner boot blacks and elevator runners.

This is no effort to belittle his simple tastes for he is a first rate citizen who rarely receives consideration he deserves. Babbittry in small cities is expressed with a gusto. It presses itself with a thumb in the suspender flair.

In New York one finds it eddied into backwaters of life. The Babbitt here has not the expansive manners of the show off. He has that crushing meekness a big city bestows on those who often through no fault of their own have been unable to rise above obscurity.

While Chicago has been dubbed the Windy City, the velocity of wind in New York reaches greater speed. The two windiest corners are at Twenty third and Fifty Seventh and Broadway. Those two corners were always well packed with idlers and then short skirts came in. [illegible]

A telephone exchange in Mayor Walker's neighborhood is named Walker.

It has been told that the idea of calling the exchange in the theatrical district Rialto was once considered but it was changed to Wisconsin. Publicity seekers have often sought to have exchanges named for them to no avail. The telephone company relies on experts to name exchanges. They select names easiest understood.

It is presumed the system of telephone enunciation is somewhat akin to the idea those of us learned who sent ten cents to Dept. J, Hohokus, New Jersey, in our youth to purchase one of those "Surprise Your Friends—Become a Ventriloquist" books. If memory serves the ventriloquist student must always change b to v to keep lips from moving. Thus Alabama became Alavama. In like manner there are certain letters that throw a word out of kilter over the telephone. And as I read over what I have written I seem to have become involved in something that sounds pretty senseless. Still I mean well.

Word seeps over from the East Side that the radio has struck a fatal blow to another favored institution. The hurdy gurdy is passing. Its tinny tunes no longer inspire dancing in the streets. Children dance to newer tunes of the radio. Street bands and lone musicians have also suffered in like manner.

Hurdy gurdies used to be rented for $1.50 a day. One man owned more than 100 and was known as the Hurdy Gurdy king.—Copyright 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

ALBERT C. RITCHIE

Albert Cabell Ritchie was born in Richmond, Virginia, August 29, 1876. He was educated at Johns Hopkins university and the University of Maryland and began the practice of law in 1898 in Baltimore, where he formed a law partnership there in 1903. He served as assistant city solicitor from 1903 to 1910 and as assistant general counsel to the public service commission from 1910 to 1913. Ritchie served as state attorney general from 1916 to 1920. During war years he was general counsel for the war industries board. In 1920 Ritchie was elected governor and was re-elected to a second term in 1924. He has been mentioned as a Democratic presidential possibility. His address is Annapolis, Maryland.

Governor Ritchie is an advocate of greater powers for cities. He says:

"Free cities in free states for the sake of future of democracy.

"If this sounds a bit revolutionary, I answer that an urban democracy must be allowed to function in an urban way, and that cities which complain about the iniquities of municipal government should not forget how little democracy has really been tried in municipal government and how restricted our cities have been in meeting the endless series of new problems in their constantly changing world at home.

"If in our historic beginning the cities were a negligible factor, today they have become much more than mere tax gathering and [illegible] spending and police areas. They have grown until they have become the heart of the nation.

"Fundamentally the city is now more than a mere corporate creature of the legislature of the state. The living purpose of the city [illegible] that of the state transcends mere administration. It becomes to all purposes the [illegible] actual government under which so many of us live and to which we look and have a right to look for anything and everything a government can do to enhance our happiness and well being."

Dinner Stories.

For two days they had a Swedish clerk in one of the shoe stores on Hollywood boulevard. He isn't there now, but he might have been [illegible] had not the boss detected him in the act of [illegible] a brand new pair of shoes into the waste basket.

"Here! What's the idea of throwing those shoes away like that?"

"Dey bane no good. I try dem on six [illegible] already and dey don't fit no one."

It was his first visit to London and [illegible] enjoyed himself. He had sold [illegible] gold coin on the [illegible] seeing the [illegible] offered him half a crown [illegible] and [illegible] jumped at the offer [illegible] boarding house.

[illegible] gasped the other. [illegible] It was worth a pound!"

The PENNY PRINCESS

COPYRIGHT 1927 by NEA Service

by Anne Austin

"How can we get away?" Vee-Vee's teeth chattered with fear and excitement.

Begin Here Today

VERA CAMERON, efficient secretary, allows JERRY MACKLYN, advertising manager for Peach Bloom Cosmetics, to transform her into a beauty through the use of the company cosmetics. She consents only after she falls in love with a man who ignores her.

Jerry proposes to use her photographs in advertising booklets. In transforming her, the beauty specialist copies a picture Jerry finds in his desk. Vera wants to be beautiful so she can spend her vacation at Lake Minnetonka and meet the man she loves, SCHUYLER SMYTHE.

At the summer hotel, Smythe and other guests mistake Vera for the ex-princess, VIVIAN CRANDALL, who, after a Paris divorce, is in hiding. Vera tries to convince people of her true identity but is not believed.

NAN FOSDICK, who it is rumored Schuyler is engaged to for her money, begs Vee-Vee to leave the hotel, saying Schuyler loved her before Vera came. Nan and MRS. BANNISTER, another guest, go to the city and Vera knows they will notify the Crandalls. That night, Schuyler and Vera go to the end of the pier to be alone and Vera determines to confess to him. Vera puts off confession and begs him to tell her of his boyhood. When he admits he is a secretary, she asks him if he would love her any less if he learned she was a nobody, without money. A bellboy appears, summoning Vera to meet two men who await her at the hotel. Schuyler says he will not let them take her away, that she must marry him tonight.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXVII

"HOW can we get away?" Vee-Vee's teeth chattered with fear and excitement. "Your car is in the hotel garage, out of commission—"

"Listen!" he commanded sharply. "Run along the shore road till you come to that little clump of three birches where I got that birch bark for you yesterday. Hide among the trees until you see a car coming. I'll blow a signal on the horn—one long and one short honk. Understand?"

"But where will you get the car?" Vee-Vee protested, seizing his arm as he was starting down the steps.

"Steal it and notify the hotel in the morning where they can pick it up," Schuyler retorted grimly. "I'm not going to let anything stand in my way. That scoundrel Thurston had my car tampered with, and I'll take his car to get away in if I can find it. He usually keeps it waiting at the rear entrance. Now—run along and be sure no one sees you before you run out into the road. Darling! Kiss me, so that I'll know it's real—that we're actually going to be married!"

"No! We must hurry!"

While she waited in the shelter of the little clump of birches near the lake shore road, her heart was beating so fast with excitement that she could not think. She could only pray wordlessly, praying that Schuyler would not repudiate her as an impostor and a [illegible]—

A roadster which she recognized as belonging to Thurston, the hotel manager, came suddenly into view around the curve of the road. Vee-Vee crouched behind a tree until the reassuring signal came—one long honk of the horn, followed by a short one. She scurried across the road, and was in the car before it had come to a full stop.

"Got it—Thurston's car!" Schuyler exulted. "I should have taken a closed car if one had been handy. Fortunately for us, Thurston leaves his keys in his car. I warned him once that it was dangerous business, but he laughed at me, said there were no thieves at the Minnetonka. He'll laugh on the other side of his mouth, until he hears from me in the morning. Do him good to worry a little," he added, with a short laugh that jangled on Vee-Vee's overwrought nerves.

She said nothing, but huddled low in her half of the seat, wrapping the white Spanish shawl about her head and shoulders, to protect the carefully set wave in her copper-colored hair from the menace of the wind.

"I believe we're being followed," Schuyler said suddenly, after a pause during which he had increased the speed of the car to 40 miles an hour. "Look over your shoulder, darling."

Vee-Vee obeyed. "There's a car behind us, but of course they may not be following us," she reported, trying to keep panic out of her voice.

"I'll lose them, whoever they are," Schuyler promised her grimly.

The speedometer climbed from 40 to 45, hung there a moment then wavered drunkenly to 50. Vee-Vee glanced over her shoulder fearfully, as the car swung at a perilous angle in taking the turn from the lake road to the state highway.

"I think we've lost them, if they were following us," she cried to Schuyler above the whistle of the wind and the hum of the motor. "Where are you taking me?" she asked.

"As far as I can drive before nine o'clock in the morning," Schuyler answered. "I'll try to make Connecticut—easier to get a marriage license in that state than in New York state."

"Schuyler," she began, desperately taking her courage into her hands, "I've got something to tell you. Please slow down! I can't talk against the noise and the wind."

"Afraid of me?" She could see his smile in the light from the tiny electric globe set in the dashboard.

"Yes," she answered shivering. "Won't you please turn into the first lane that we come to, so that we can talk undisturbed? Please, Schuyler! It's vitally important."

"If you're going to ask me to take you back to that hotel, where those damned detectives are waiting to take you I see, I can tell you now that I won't do it!" Schuyler shouted at her. "I have you now and I [illegible] and nothing is going to come between us again. Do you hear?"

"Are you trying to prove that you are a masterful man?" she laughed shakily. "I don't want you to take me back to the hotel. I want to get as far away as I can, but first I have to tell you the truth. Then, if you still want me, I shall be happy to marry you."

"Nothing you can tell me can make me change my mind," Schuyler assured her, but he slowed the car to a bare 15 miles an hour, keeping out to search for a lane turning off the main road.

"There's a farmhouse ahead. See the lights?" Vee-Vee pointed to the right. "There must be a private road leading to it. Yes, here it is. Please turn in."

"I fail to see why we should waste time in talk when it is of such vital importance to clear away," Schuyler grumbled as he obeyed. "See any car down the road?"

"No," Vee-Vee shook her head. "There's a car going toward Minnetonka but none coming from it."

"Now what is this terrible truth that you have to tell me?" Schuyler smiled, as he cut off the engine. "I believe," he laughed exultantly, "that my little princess just wants to be kissed. I'll bet many a girl has been kissed in this lane. My darling!"

"No," Vee-Vee cried out sharply. "Not yet. Please! Schuyler," her hand went to her throat—"I've tried to tell you so many times, but you wouldn't listen. Tonight, dear, I asked you if you wouldn't be glad if the girl you love came to you as poor as you are so that you could work for her—"

"Do you mean," he interrupted her sharply, "that you've let that damned prince get hold of all your money? The papers said your father had protected your money when the marriage settlement was made—"

"Oh, you make it so hard!" she wailed. "I don't know where to begin or how to convince you." She beat upon her breast with a clenched hand and received the answer, for the crackle of folded paper came to her faintly. Jerry's letter! The letter that explained the whole miserable business was tucked away beneath the light bodice of her evening dress. She pushed aside the folds of the Spanish shawl and groped for the letter. Her fingers felt dry against the warm flesh of her bosom.

"Have you some idiotic idea of testing my love by telling me that you are poor?" Schuyler demanded in an odd voice. Then he seemed to pull himself together, laughed unsteadily. "Darling, I don't give a damn about your precious money. If you've lost 40 million dollars in four years of being a princess, why, all the better—for me, I mean. I can have the pleasure of showing you how the backbone of America lives!" He laughed again, but there seemed to be little genuine pleasure behind it.

"Don't laugh!" she cried out of her pain. "I haven't been trying to tell you that I've lost 40 million dollars, but—"

"I know you were just trying to test me," he laughed with more assurance. "But I don't think you show much trust of the man who has loved you for five years—"

"That's just it!" Vee-Vee cried. "You haven't loved me for five years, for you had never seen me before in your life when I walked into the Minnetonka [illegible]

[illegible]

"What do you mean?" Schuyler's [illegible] My God! I've heard that you like dramatics, but this is hardly the time or the place—"

"Can't you believe me?" she shrilled at him in desperation. "I tell you I'm not Vivian Crandall! I have never even seen her in my life, had scarcely heard of her until Sunday when everyone insisted on mistaking me for her—"

"I don't believe it!" Schuyler's voice was suddenly shouting in her ear. "I tell you I don't believe it! I'm not such a fool as you think! It's a great scheme to ditch a man you are tired of playing with, but it won't work, Princess Vivian! Don't try to use me to [illegible] escape those detectives your parents had put on your trail! Well, I'm not a man to be trifled with! I'll keep you until you'll be glad to marry me to save your precious reputation!"

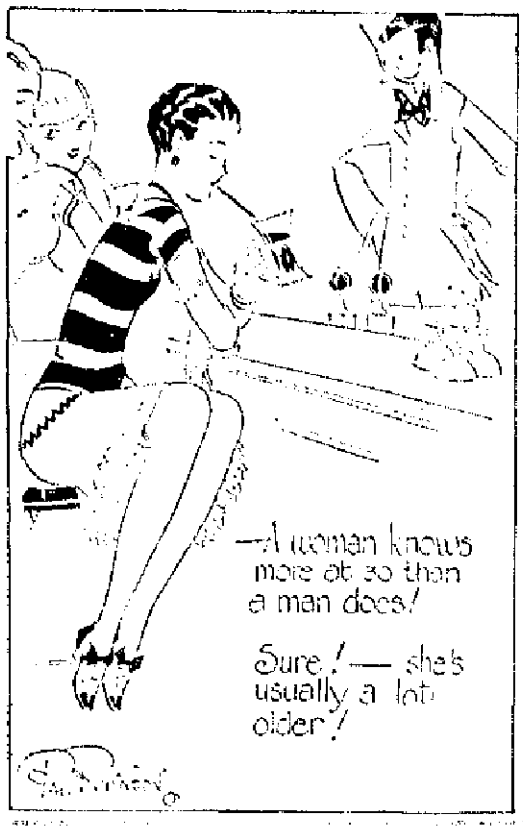
Just Among Us Girls



—A woman knows more at 30 than a man does!
Sure!—she's usually a lot older!

Girls World Over Like Our Blase U. S. Flappers

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Adolescents the whole world over have been bitten by the American flapper stock bug according to Stanley High who has just completed a globe-circling tour under the auspices of the Methodist Book Concern.

"Wherever I went—India, Africa, China, Malaysia, I found groups of girls who were regular American flappers," High said. "Their native dress and retiring ways were absolutely forgotten and they proudly wore dainty foreign clothes, the latest make-up and the most blase manners right under the disapproving noses of their parents.

"As for the young men, anywhere from the teen age to 25 or 30 years old what they do in the next 25 years will probably change the history for the non-white races and of the world. Their adoption of modern dress and manners is as striking as that of their girl friends."

In keeping with the change in customs and manners is the new nationalist outlook of the younger generation Chinese, Indians and other Asiatics, according to High.

"If the white people of the earth do not learn how to co-operate with the other races," he said, "they are soon going to come in active conflict with [illegible] them and while we think we could lick anybody on earth, we may get a terrible surprise in that line.

"The yellow, black and brown races fast outnumber the white and with what they have learned about fighting and with their own terrible courage and determination, they could probably eventually overcome even our scientific methods of warfare.

"They don't want to bow and scrape to the white people and the day is fast approaching when they won't do it."

To Save Lives

The toll of lives lost at railroad crossings can be reduced by the exercise of greater care by drivers.

Many of these tragedies result from the stalling of motors when cars are on the tracks.

To prevent this the BIG FOUR ROUTE has placed signs at hundreds of crossings reading, "Cross Tracks in Second Gear."

Careful drivers agree that this advice is sound, and if followed will remove the danger of "killing" the motor when on the tracks.
